Definitions

Public Art refers to a range of artwork and art-based activities that are located in the public domain. Areas of public domain include open space, public buildings, parks, playgrounds, beaches, bushland and anywhere else that the general public has access to. Public Art can include sculpture, place-making elements, wall embellishments, artist-designed seating and fencing, paving work, lighting elements and other creative possibilities. Public Art can serve both an aesthetic and functional purpose.

The Northern Beaches Council Public Art Policy recognises that public art consists of a highly diverse and constantly evolving range of activities and outcomes. For the purpose of this Policy, public art is defined in the broadest sense as the product of artists and community members who intend their work or activities to be seen and understood as art in the public realm. Embracing material and immaterial products, public art also includes concepts and activities, which emanate from the creative thinking of artists and the community.

For the purposes of this Policy, the public domain means public places and/or open spaces that are situated within, vested in or managed by Council, including parks, beaches, bushland, outdoor recreation facilities, streets, laneways, pathways and foreshore promenades and public buildings, facilities or enclosed structures, owned and managed by Council which are physically accessible to the general public.
